Asli Ashkir is an experienced public health nurse with 30 years combined experience in clinical nursing, public health, and education. Currently, Mrs. Ashkir works as a senior RN consultant with the Minnesota Department of Health’s (MDH) Children and Youth with Special Health Need’s section. Mrs. Ashkir got her basic nursing diploma from Somalia, her Bachelor of Science in Nursing from India, and a Masters of Public Health in Maternal and Child Health from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Mrs. Ashkir is the Co-founder and President of Somali Health Solutions, a community based organization that advances the efforts of the care providers and institutions that serve the Somali community of Minnesota. Email: Asli.Ashkir@state.mn.us

Kent Cova-Suarez, MS is currently the community health coordinator for Open Door Health Center, where he provides integrated community health services to the medical and dental departments. He completed his Master’s in cognitive behavioral counseling at Simón Bolívar University and is currently a doctoral candidate in psychology at Florida State University. Kent has extensive experience providing support to refugees and immigrants in South Central Minnesota. He is committed to helping people in need access quality and affordable health care. His interests involve community health in an integrated primary care setting and the management and treatment of anxiety and depression. Email: CovaSuarez.Kent@odhc.org

Pakou Hang is the co-founder and executive director of the Hmong American Farmers Association. She has over 20 years of experience with farming and vegetable production and is a former member of the St. Paul Farmers Market Board of Directors, as well as a 2011 participant of the White House Project’s Plate to Politics Summit in Wisconsin. Pakou has worked for over 12 years as a community organizer and graduated from the University of Minnesota in 2008 with a Masters in Political Science and from Yale University in 1999 with a B.A., also in Political Science. She is a recipient of the prestigious Hubert H. Humphrey Public Leadership Award, the Paul and Daisy Soros Fellowship for New Americans, and the newly inaugurated Bush Leadership Fellowship. Email: pakou@hmongfarmers.com

Rachele King is the manager of the Resettlement Programs Office at the MN Department of Human Services where she has served as the state refugee coordinator since February 2015. Rachele began working in the field of refugee resettlement in 1997. Her entry to this work was through a one year volunteer corps position with the LSS Refugee and Immigration Program. That one year of service turned into a lifelong commitment to promote the successful resettlement and integration of refugees in Minnesota. Immediately prior to her current position, she worked at the Minnesota Council of Churches for 11 years, where she served as the director of refugee services. Email: rachele.king@state.mn.us

Kathryn Leggitt, CNM, is a Certified Nurse Midwife at Hennepin County Medical Center. She obtained her Bachelor of Science in Nursing and her Master of Science from the University of Minnesota. Her work at Hennepin County Medical Center includes the care of many women and their families from Somalia, other East African and North African countries, the Middle East, and Central America. Her publications include "Holistic Pregnancy & Childbirth", an interactive website sponsored by the University of Minnesota's Center for Spirituality and Healing and the chapter "Techniques to Promote Relaxation in Labor" within "Supporting a Physiologic Approach to Pregnancy and Birth" published by Wiley-Blackwell. Email: Kathryn.Leggitt@hcmed.org

Ann Linde, MPH, is the international health planner at MDH. She partners with refugee- and immigrant-led community organizations and other stakeholders on health promotion projects. She assists in coordinating the activities of the Minnesota Center of Excellence in Refugee Health. Email: Ann.Linde@state.mn.us

Amy Miller is currently a disability examiner at the Minnesota DDS. She worked at the International Institute of Minnesota for 11 years prior to joining DDS. She spent five of those years working in the resettlement department and oversaw refugee health case management for part of that time. She has a background in public health from U of MN where she studied Community Health Education and International Health. Email: amy.e.miller@ssa.gov

Hibat Sharif came to the United States as a refugee from Somalia at the age of 4. She spent most of her life in a rural town in Maine called Lewiston. She graduated from Weber State University in Health Administration with an emphasis on Health Promotion and Education. She is currently working at Ramsey County Public Health’s Child and Teen Checkup Program. Email: hibat.sharif@CO.RAMSEY.MN.US

Sister Stephanie Spandl, LICSW obtained her Master’s degree in Social Work at St. Catherine University/University of St. Thomas. She has 22 years of experience working with immigrants and refugees in a variety of capacities, including mental health, housing, homelessness, general advocacy, and case management. She has been with MORE for the past 10 years as the mental health program manager. Email: sspandl@more-empowerment.org

Cynthia Treviño is a licensed social worker and community health worker at Open Door Health Center (ODHC) in Mankato, Minnesota. She completed her undergraduate degree in social work at Minnesota State University, Mankato and is currently in the process of attaining her Masters in Social Work from Minnesota State University, Mankato. She has worked with ODHC for the past year in the Community Health Program. Her previous work experience includes working with children in a daycare setting, as well as adults with developmental and intellectual disabilities in a residential setting. Cynthia is involved in the community in various ways including regularly attending community discussions surrounding the care and advancement of people of diverse ethnic backgrounds.
Hannah Volkman has been a refugee and international health fellow with MDH since August 2014. She has collaborated on a broad range of Refugee and International Health Program projects including the legislative report on spoken language healthcare interpreting and the development of a health orientation resource toolkit designed for resettlement agencies and providers who work with recent refugee arrivals. Hannah holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology and a Bachelor of Arts degree in Spanish from the University of St. Thomas. This spring she will graduate from the University of Minnesota with a Master of Public Health degree.
Email: Hannah.Volkman@state.mn.us

Elise Whitesparks has been with MN Disability Determination Services for 5 years where she is currently a medical relations officer. Prior to her current position, she was a disability examiner for several years. She has a BA in International Studies from the University of Wisconsin – Stevens Point and has a background working in workers compensation. Email: Elise.Whitesparks@ssa.gov

ThaoMee Xiong is the director of the Center for Health Equity at MDH. She has professional legal advocacy and public policy experience on issues related to poverty, immigration, refugee resettlement, domestic violence, and housing. She is committed to developing meaningful and effective public policy through community engagement and civic participation. She believes that the communities most impacted by a policy proposal should have an opportunity to be involved in the decision-making process. ThaoMee's passion for public policy comes from her refugee parents' commitment to building community and engaging in the democratic process. She received her J.D. from the University of Pennsylvania Law School and her M.P.A. from Columbia University’s School of International and Public Affairs. Email: ThaoMee.Xiong@state.mn.us