Tobacco products sold in

Wabasha County, Minnesota

What is it?

There are many tobacco products available and advertised in stores, including cigarettes, cigarillos, smokeless/chew tobacco, cigars and e-cigarettes. These products may have special flavorings and many are available in different package sizes, including singles.

Why does it matter?

Point of sale advertising promotes brand recognition in youth and the belief that youth can buy tobacco products without proof of age [1]. Expanding perceived availability of tobacco products encourages impulse purchases, cues cravings, and undermines quit attempts [2, 3, 4].

What can be done? Best examples…

Some jurisdictions restrict where sales can occur. Restricting sales to adult-only locations is the approach that has been used and recommended here in Minnesota. For example, the City of Shoreview restricts the sale of most flavored tobacco products to “adult-only, tobacco-only” retail establishments.

Raising the price is the gold standard of point-of-sale strategies. A growing number of Minnesota communities have adopted laws that require a minimum price and/or a minimum package size for cigars, increasing the price of those products. For example, the City of St. Paul requires a minimum per pack price ($10.40) for four or more cigars, with a minimum per cigar price ($2.60) for smaller quantities.

Placement
Tobacco product placement in Wabasha County, Minnesota

What is it?
The Federal Trade Commission reported that in 2014, the tobacco industry spent about $260 million on promotional allowances paid to cigarette retailers and about $33 million paid to smokeless tobacco retailers to control the strategic shelving and placement of tobacco products [1]. Retailers may place tobacco at eye level of children or near candy, or in special vendor-assisted displays.

Why does it matter?
Tobacco product displays increase brand recognition, especially among youth [2].

What can be done? Best examples...
While Minnesota law has significantly restricted self-service displays and vending machine sales, a large number of cities and counties have adopted more comprehensive regulations. For example, the City of Hermantown prohibits open product displays in all licensed establishments. Morrison County prohibits all vending machine sales. For more information, a model ordinance was created for cities and counties, who wish to prohibit access to self-service displays of all tobacco products [3].

Price Promotion
Tobacco price promotions in
Wabasha County, Minnesota

What is it?
Price promotions reduce the sale price of tobacco products to entice customers to buy. These can include multi-pack discounts (e.g., buy two, get one free), dollars or cents off, and limited-time offers. Youth are especially price-sensitive consumers and reductions in price increase the likelihood that they will experiment with tobacco [1].

Why does it matter?
Prohibiting price promotions reduces consumption, reduces initiation, and increases cessation efforts. [1]

What's happening in Wabasha County?
50% of retailers in Wabasha County had any tobacco price promotions. This is 1% less than the state percent of retailers with price promotions (51%), and 13% less than the country POST average (63%).

What can be done? Best examples...
In 2013, NYC passed comprehensive point of sale policy, restricting price discounts by prohibiting retailers from redeeming coupons [2]. Providence, RI was the first to ban coupon redemption and multi-pack discounts in 2012 [3].
