4. MOAPPP's 17th Annual Conference

May 1-2, 2008

A Special Invitation for those working in Sexual Violence Prevention...

MOAPPP's 17th Annual Conference

May 1-2, 2008

EarleBrown Heritage Center – Brooklyn Center, Minnesota

The MOAPPP conference offers two days of dynamic speakers, challenging workshops and multiple opportunities to network with Minnesota professionals committed to teen pregnancy prevention and support for pregnant and parenting teens.

There are a number of workshops focused specifically on the relationship between sexual violence and teen pregnancy, as well as a variety of workshops closely related to the work you do. Research has shown that young women and men who experience sexual violence are more likely to experience an unplanned pregnancy. This conference is an opportunity for us to come together, as professionals, to see how we can work together to support youth in our community.

6. New CDC publication: Child Maltreatment Surveillance: Uniform Definitions for Public Health and Recommended Data Elements

Child maltreatment is a significant social and public health problem in the United States (U.S.). In 2006, child protective services confirmed that approximately 905,000 children in the U.S. were victims of maltreatment and 1,530 died from abuse or neglect. Unfortunately, these numbers likely underestimate the magnitude of the problem in this country.

Calculation of victimization rates for child maltreatment depends on how the definition is operationalized. Currently, the multiple sectors (child protective services, legal and medical communities, public health officials, practitioners, and advocates) addressing this problem use their own definitions. This limits communication across sectors and hampers prevention efforts.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is pleased to announce the publication of Child Maltreatment Surveillance: Uniform Definitions for Public Health and Recommended Data Elements. This document provides conceptual definitions of child maltreatment, presents associated terms, and recommends data elements for voluntary use by the public health community in the development of surveillance systems.

Hard copies of the publication can be ordered on-line at <http://www.cdc.gov/pubs/ncipc.aspx>.

An electronic copy is available at <http://www.cdc.gov/ncipc/dvp/CMP/CMP-Surveillance.htm>.

Additional information on child maltreatment prevention is available on-line at www.cdc.gov/ncipc.

Walgreens

Deadline: Rolling

The Walgreens drugstore chain operates a Company Contribution Program primarily to makes grants to nonprofit organizations in local Walgreens communities.

Walgreen awards grants mostly to eligible nonprofits working in local Walgreen communities, with a portion of the budget reserved for select national organizations. The major area of focus is health—but education also is a priority. Since our founding in 1901, Walgreen Co. and its employees have recognized the connection between strong communities and company philanthropy.

Eligible applicants include nonprofit, tax-exempt organizations with 501 (c)(3) status that operate within an area Walgreens serves, as well as metro-Chicago, where its headquarters is located. See the Web site for geographic eligibility. Also, because Walgreens is a contributor to many local United Way campaigns across the nation, agencies which are members of the United Way or which receive special grants or allocations are ineligible to apply for additional support.

Reader's Digest Foundation to Donate $1 Million Based on Inspiring Stories from the Public

Deadline: Rolling

The Reader's Digest Foundation has announced that it will donate a total of $1 million to nonprofit organizations through a new initiative called "Make it Matter."

Grants will be inspired by individuals who are taking action and giving back to their communities in significant ways. Every month, the foundation will select one individual's story of good deeds done and grant $100,000 to a nonprofit organization in honor of that individual. Reader's Digest magazine will then feature that person in its new column, "Make it Matter."

Submissions for "Make it Matter" will be accepted by the foundation on a rolling basis throughout 2008.

To learn more about the program and submitting a story, visit the foundation's Web site.
