2. Videoconference: Turf is Not a Four Letter Word: Advancing Violence Against Women Prevention Partnerships, May 14, 2008

Turf is Not a Four Letter Word: Advancing Violence Against Women Prevention Partnerships
Wednesday, May 14, 2008

02:00 PM - 03:30 PM Eastern DST, 01:00 PM - 02:30 PM Central DST

12:00 PM - 01:30 PM Mountain DST, 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM Pacific DST

Effective prevention efforts involve many partners from different sectors, disciplines and organizations. While these partners agree on the end goal of preventing violence against women, many conflicts may arise, including those associated with "turf." As part of Prevention Connection's focus on building coalitions and networks, this web conference will explore how to overcome challenges in struggles over turf in violence against women partnerships.

Objectives:

Describe turf, turf-ism and types of turf struggles.

Present tools and tips for managing turf issues effectively.

Explore turf issues commonly experienced within violence against women prevention partnerships and brainstorm strategies to address them.

Guest Speakers: Wendy Loomas, Pinellas County Domestic Violence Task Force & Florida Dept. of Health, Dick Bathrick, Men Stopping Violence, Atlanta, GA

Registration: Link to <http://www.preventconnect.org/display/displayTextItems.cfm?itemID=165§ionID=248>

This session will be restricted to the first 350 people who sign up. Cost: Free

3. Conference: Creating Visible Light: Utilizing the Spectrum of Prevention to End Sexual Violence, Columbus, Ohio, June 26-27, 2008

The 2008 annual statewide sexual violence prevention conference features a multitude of resources that will take educators and advocates to the next level of violence prevention. Participants will leave with practical applications and hands-on examples of how to create social change using all six levels of the Spectrum of Prevention. Specifically, each participant will gain a better understanding of community level program planning, educating providers about prevention, influencing policies and legislation, communicating social change, social marketing for violence prevention, among other related topics.

June 26-27, 2008, Quest Conference Center, Columbus, Ohio

Registration information and further details will be available mid-May 2008.

Who should attend? Sexual and domestic violence advocates and prevention educators/specialists, social workers, counselors, healthcare providers, community partners, and allied professionals.

The U.S. Department of Education announces that its 22nd Annual National Meeting on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse and Violence Prevention in Higher Education will take place November 16-19, 2008, in St. Paul, Minnesota, at the Crowne Plaza Hotel St. Paul-Riverfront!

This is the national conference for examining issues around alcohol and other drug abuse and violence prevention on college campuses and in their surrounding communities. The 2008 National Meeting theme, "Ensuring the Safety and Well-Being of Our Students: Widening the Lens of Prevention," provides an opportunity for participants to consider the wide array of issues that face college campuses in prevention today, including alcohol and other drug abuse, violence, mental health, and emergency preparedness and management. The National Meeting includes keynote speakers, workshops, town meetings, poster sessions, exhibits, and the National Forum for Senior Administrators cosponsored with The Network Addressing Collegiate Alcohol and Other Drug Issues. For complete participation advice, call for presentation proposals, exhibit and registration instructions, hotel and travel information, and agenda details as they develop, please check back often at <http://www.higheredcenter.org/natl/2008/>

Who should attend?

Prevention professionals (disciplines can include health and wellness, alcohol and other drug abuse prevention, student affairs, residence life, law enforcement, peer education, mental health, and emergency preparedness and management, and violence prevention)

College and university students

Community-based and statewide coalition members (including prevention and treatment providers)

Representatives from state and national organizations concerned with alcohol and other drug abuse and violence, health and wellness, mental health, and emergency preparedness and management issues on college campuses and in their surrounding communities

6. Trafficking Resources

The Campus Coalition Against Trafficking (CCAT), is building the anti-trafficking movement by training emerging leaders, fostering youth empowerment, raising awareness about human trafficking and encouraging cross-sectoral linkages among social justice issues. Link to:

8. Newsletter: Moving Upstream

The new issue of the Virginia Sexual and Domestic Violence Action Alliance (VSDVAA) primary SV/IPV prevention newsletter, "Moving Upstream" is available on-line at: <http://www.vsdvalliance.org/secPublications/newsletters.html>

The theme of this issue is "Revisiting Healthy Sexuality and Sexual Violence Prevention". The feature article profiles two programs using a healthy sexuality approach, and also reports on key policy and practice developments that have come to light since the original healthy sexuality articles were published in 2005. There is also an article examining how one local Virginia agency implemented the Care For Kids child sexual abuse prevention program in their community.

"Moving Upstream" is only published electronically, and new issues are produced 3 times per year. Please copy and paste the URL above to your internet browser's navigation window to access the current issue. You can also download the 9 previous issues of "Moving Upstream" at the same URL.

9. Sexual Assault Services Program Announced

The Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) announced a new Sexual Assault Services Program in April to support the establishment, maintenance and expansion of rape crisis centers and other programs and projects to assist victims.

In addition to establishing rape crisis centers, awards made through the program will help states, Indian tribes and territories provide intervention and related assistance services. These may include: 24-hour hotline services; accompaniment and advocacy through medical, criminal justice and social support systems including medical facilities, police and court proceedings; crisis intervention; and community-based, linguistically and culturally specific services and support mechanisms including outreach activities for underserved communities.

The new Program “will focus on providing improved services for sexual assault victims and a stronger criminal justice response to sexual assault crimes,” OVW Director Cindy Dyer said. “I look forward to working with sexual assault victim advocates, service providers and criminal justice professionals to implement this important program.”

Announcements regarding eligibility requirements, funding thresholds, and application procedures for the Sexual Assault Services Program is forthcoming. Once available, the grant solicitation will be posted on www.ovw.usdoj.gov.

OVW is a component of the U.S. Department of Justice. The Sexual Assault Services Program was authorized as part of the Violence Against Women Act and Department of Justice Reauthorization Act of 2005. More information is available at www.ovw.usdoj.gov.
