1. FINAL REMINDER: SVPN Meeting/Videoconference/Live Webstream: "Stepping out of the story, expanding the frame: Using ACE data to build support for social change", November 4, 2011

Stepping out of the story, expanding the frame: Using ACE data to build support for social change

What does preventing adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) – including child sexual abuse – have to do with preventing diabetes, heart disease, obesity, early pregnancy, substance use, or improving education outcomes? Everything! We all have a pivotal role in promoting the conditions necessary to achieve the health and wellbeing we seek for our communities - no matter where you work in public health, policy, advocacy, education, social services.

This SVPN meeting will provide you with an overview of the Adverse Childhood Experiences study, how its findings have been used to craft policies and advocacy messages, and the implications for sexual violence prevention work. We will describe the ways in which how we frame the story of child sexual abuse prevention – as advocates, policy makers, researchers, and practitioners – shapes our ability to achieve the change we are demanding. We will also explore how the ACE study has been used to create new frames that support our prevention efforts. We will also highlight how Minnesota is planning to collect and use ACE data – and how that data will be available to you and your organization.

3. Webinar: That's Just the Way We Do Things Here: Changing the Culture of Your Court, November 15, 2011

Join WATCH on Tuesday, November 15th at 1:00 p.m. CST (11:00 a.m. PST, 12:00 p.m. MST, 2:00 p.m. EST) for a one-hour webinar on Changing the Culture of Your Court with special guest Rachel Hawkins, court advocate at Sojourner Project in Minnesota.

The cultural norms of courtrooms often determine how cases are handled and not the rule of law. Are your courts "held hostage" by a difficult staff person? Who is really in charge of your courts? Victims should expect courts that are safe, efficient and respectful but a "that's just the way it's done here" attitude can often get in the way. This webinar will examine court culture and how to change it for the better.

Share your experience!

Do you have an example of a situation at court that required action and you weren't sure how to respond? Do you have a particular concern that needs your attention? Send us your questions and a brief description of your experience and we will address it during the webinar! Examples must be received no later than Friday, November 4th

COST: $35 for National Association of Court Monitoring Program members and $50 for non-members. You may register by credit card at www.watchmn.org/training (link removed) or send a check to the address listed above. If paying with a check, please include the name of the webinar you are registering for, as well as a phone number, mailing address and e-mail contact.

QUESTIONS: Email khovde@watchmn.org or call (612) 341-2747 x2.

A WEBINAR IS: a seminar transmitted over the web. All you need is a phone line and access to the internet. Upon registration you will be provided with access codes.

New Research: Garden of Truth tells stories of Native victims of prostitution and sex trafficking in MN

By Sheila Regan, TC Daily Planet

October 29, 2011

On October 27, the Minnesota Indian Women's Sexual Assault Coalition (MIWSAC) and Prostitution Research & Education (PRE) released a new report called Garden of Truth: The Prostitution and Trafficking of Native Women in Minnesota, the first-of-its-kind based on interviews and surveys with more than 105 Native women aged 18-60 in the Twin Cities, Duluth and Bemidji. The report was written by Melissa Farley, Nicole Matthews, Sarah Deer, Guadalupe Lopez, Christine Stark, and Eileen Hudon.

The study found that of the 105 women, about half had been victims of sex trafficking, 92 percent had been raped, 84 percent had been physically abused during prostitution, 72 percent had suffered traumatic brain injuries from prostitution, 98 percent were currently or previously homeless, and 39 percent entered prostitution before age 18. In addition, the study found that 72 percent of the women saw a connection between prostitution and colonization.

Prostitution Versus Sex Trafficking

The research for the report was conducted about women involved with both prostitution and sex trafficking in part because of the "multiple legal definitions at the federal, state, and tribal levels and the varying degrees of understanding among those working on social justice issues and the general population" of sex trafficking, according to the report.

The federal definition of sex trafficking is "the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act," while the Minnesota statutory definition of sex trafficking is...
