6. Strong Families groups starting in June

The Children's Home Society Family Services Strong Families Program works to reduce the risk of child sexual abuse by nurturing young people's capacity for resilience. The program involves children and their parent/guardian in a twelve-week series of interactive, skill-building groups which meet at convenient community locations.

A Strong Families group is starting:

- ▶ Monday, June 13th, from 6-8 pm at the West Seventh Community Center.
- ▶ for Latino families on Thursdays, June 23rd at Assumption Church in Richfield
- ▶ for Somali families on Thursdays, June 23rd at Skyline Towers

Families or workers may contact Children's Home Society Family Services Strong Families Program or call Maisie, (651) 222-0311, ext. 190 to learn more or to register.

8. The Science of Child Sexual Abuse

Taken from:

The Science of Child Sexual Abuse

Science Magazine

22 April 2005; 308: 501

Child sexual abuse involving sexual contact between an adult (usually male) and a child has been reported by 20% of women and 5% to 10% of men worldwide. Surveys likely underestimate prevalence because of underreporting and memory failure. Although official reports have declined somewhat in the United States over the past decade, close to 90% of sexual abuse cases are never reported to the authorities. ## 9. Funding announcement: Notice of the availability of funding to Native American Tribes (including Alaska Native Villages) and Tribal organizations for family violence prevention and services

Family Violence Prevention and Services Program (FVPS) [Program Announcement No. FV02-2005]

Issuing Agency: Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families

Summary

This announcement governs the proposed award of formula grants under the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act to Native American Tribes (including Alaska Native Villages) and Tribal organizations. The purpose of these grants is to assist Tribes in establishing, maintaining, and expanding programs and projects to prevent family violence and to provide immediate shelter and related assistance for victims of family violence and their dependents. This announcement sets forth the application requirements, the application process, and other administrative and fiscal requirements for grants in fiscal year 2005. Grantees are to be mindful that although the expenditure period for grants is a two-year period, an application is required every year to provide continuity in the provision of services.

Action Date

Applications for FY 2005 Tribes (including Alaska Native Villages) and Tribal Organizations grant awards meeting the criteria specified in this instruction should be received no later than July 1, 2005.
