Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

American dog tick

Blacklegged tick

(wood tick)

(deer tick)

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

(wood tick) American dog tick

(Approximate tick sizes)

(Approximate tick sizes)

(deer tick) Blacklegged tick

Tick ID Card

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

(Approximate tick sizes)

Tick ID Card

Tick ID Card

Tick ID Card

Blacklegged tick

American dog tick (wood tick)

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

Adult Jemale, adult male, nymph, larva

(wood tick) American dog tick

(Approximate tick sizes)

(deer tick)

Tick ID Card

American dog tick (wood tick)

Blacklegged tick

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

Adult Jemale, adult male, nymph, larva

(wood tick) American dog tick

(Approximate tick sizes)

(deer tick) Blacklegged tick

Blacklegged tick (deer tick)

American dog tick

(Approximate tick sizes)

(wood tick)

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

(wood tick) American dog tick

(Approximate tick sizes)

(deer tick) Blacklegged tick

Tick ID Card

Tick ID Card

Tick ID Card

Blacklegged tick

American dog tick

(deer tick)

(wood tick)

Tick ID Card

Tick ID Card

Blacklegged tick (deer tick)

DEPARTMENT

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

American dog tick (wood tick)

DEPARTMENT

OF HEALTH

(Approximate tick sizes)

Adult female, adult male, nymph, larva

www.health.state.mn.us/ticks

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

the tick. X DO NOI bonr kerosene on petroleum jelly.

grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with

X DO NOT burn with a match.

DO clean the bite area. ▼ DO pull up gently and slowly.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

• Check for ticks at least once a day.

Prevent tickborne diseases

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

as possible ▼ DO use tweezers or fingers to petroleum jelly. X DO NOT burn with a match.

X DO NOI bont kerosene on the tick.

DO clean the bite area. ▼ DO pull up gently and slowly. as possible grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with ▼ DO use tweezers or fingers to

DO remove as quickly as possible.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

• Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after

Prevent tickborne diseases

X DO NOT burn with a match.

X DO NOT pour kerosene on

• Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).

Check for ticks at least once a day.

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

• Call your doctor it you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after

• Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with as possible
- ✓ DO pull up gently and slowly.
- DO clean the bite area.

petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT pour kerosene on the tick.

X DO NOT burn with a match.

the tick. X DO NOT pour kerosene on petroleum jelly.

grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with X DO NOT burn with a match.

▼ DO clean the bite area.

DO pull up gently and slowly. as possible

▼ DO use tweezers or fingers to DO remove as quickly as possible.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

• Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after

• Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).

Check for ticks at least once a day.

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Prevent tickborne diseases

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin as possible
- ✓ DO pull up gently and slowly.
- ✓ DO clean the bite area.

X DO NOT burn with a match.

X DO NOT cover with petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT pour kerosene on the tick.

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with as possible

petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT cover with

✓ DO pull up gently and slowly.

X DO NOT burn with a match.

- ✓ DO clean the bite area.
- the tick. DO clean the bite area. X DO NOI pour kerosene on DO pull up gently and slowly.

the tick.

as possible grab the head as close to the skin

petroleum jelly.

▼ DO use tweezers or fingers to DO remove as quickly as possible.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

• Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after

- - Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
 - Check for ticks at least once a day.

Prevent tickborne diseases

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin as possible
- ✓ DO pull up gently and slowly.
- ✓ DO clean the bite area.

- X DO NOT burn with a match.
- X DO NOT cover with petroleum jelly.
- X DO NOT pour kerosene on the tick.

the tick.

- X DO NOI bont kerosene on petroleum jelly.
- grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with
- X DO NOT burn with a match.

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

• Call your doctor it you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after

- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
 - - Check for ticks at least once a day.

Prevent tickborne diseases

Tick removal dos and don'ts

DO clean the bite area.

as possible

▼ DO pull up gently and slowly.

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin as possible
- DO pull up gently and slowly.
- DO clean the bite area.

X DO NOT burn with a match. X DO NOT cover with petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT pour kerosene on the tick.

the tick.

X DO NOI bonr kerosene on petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT burn with a match.

DO clean the bite area. DO pull up gently and slowly.

as possible grab the head as close to the skin X DO NOT cover with ▼ DO use tweezers or fingers to > DO remove as quickly as possible. Tick removal dos and don'ts

being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

• Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after • Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).

Check for ticks at least once a day.

Prevent tickborne diseases

Prevent tickborne diseases

- Check for ticks at least once a day.
- Use an EPA-registered repellent (e.g., DEET or permethrin).
- Call your doctor if you get a fever, rash, or other symptoms after being in or near wooded or brushy areas.

Tick removal dos and don'ts

- ✓ DO remove as quickly as possible.
- ✓ DO use tweezers or fingers to grab the head as close to the skin as possible
- DO pull up gently and slowly.
- ✓ DO clean the bite area.

X DO NOT burn with a match.

X DO NOT cover with petroleum jelly.

X DO NOT pour kerosene on the tick.

