Community First Services and Supports: History and Overview

The Personal Care Assistance (PCA) program has been in existence in the State of Minnesota for over 40 years and was initially developed as a program for adults with physical disabilities who could direct their own care. The program has grown to add new populations and now serves persons of all ages and disabilities.

Over time, new perspectives and policy directions have emerged at the state and federal levels. Most recently, the passage of the Affordable Care Act allowed for the development of more flexible, self-directed state plan services to assist people with disabilities and the elderly in remaining in their homes and participating in their community. Through Reform 2020, the State is interested in taking advantage of these options which include the 1915(k) Community First Choice and 1915 (i) State Plan Home and Community Based Services options to replace the current PCA program.

The State has elected to participate in Community First Choice, which will be known in Minnesota as Community First Services and Supports. This program offers flexibility to meet the needs of participants and over time will reduce pressure on more intensive services, thereby helping to keep the long term service and support system sustainable into the future.

The 2013 Minnesota Legislature passed legislation to establish Community First Services and Supports (Minnesota Statutes §256B.85). Community First Services and Supports allows participants more choice and control over their services. Like the Personal Care Assistance program, Community First Services and Supports will allow participants to have support in:

1. activities of daily living,
2. instrumental activities of daily living, and
3. complex health-related needs.

However, Community First Services and Supports also includes:

1. assisting the participant to acquire, maintain, or enhance the skills necessary to accomplish activities of daily living, instrumental activities of daily living, or health-related tasks; and
2. purchasing goods that replace the need for human assistance or increase the participant's independence.

In Community First Services and Supports, participants will have a range of control over their services based on their choices. This includes the opportunity to either be the employer of their own support workers supported by an agent for Financial Management Services or to receive their services through a traditional agency provider who employs their support workers.

With new service options and the ability for the participant to be their own employer, Community First Services and Supports also brings new providers into the program. In the following pages you will find descriptions of the Consultation Service provider, the Financial Management Service provider, Worker Training and Development, and the purchase of goods that increase the participant's independence or decreases human assistance.

Codes and modifiers for CFSS will identify the goods, services, the model, and the level of consultation service the participant is receiving. The following pages describe the services and supports included in the program:

1. Direct Care
 - a. Agency Model
 - b. Budget Model
2. Financial Management Services (FMS)
3. Goods
4. Consultation Services
5. Worker Training and Development
