There are no eyeglasses to correct AMD. the dry form is caused by dry deposits in the retina and is untreatable. the wet form of AMD is a bleeding hemmorage below the macula. the treatment requires a monthly injection in the eye in attempt to stop the bleeding and swelling. I really don't know if the treatment has helped the condition yet - am optimistic

The testimonials on using CBD as a treatment for Macular Degeneration are impressive. I have read reports of vision improvements and even reversal of the symptoms. With so few options available for treatment, CBD stands out as an appealing alternative treatment. I would very much wish to try this for obvious reasons.
